SBE School is closed for the summer - return to these pages in the fall for coverage of school events

KPBSD designates Principal -Teacher position at SBE

Seldovia will continue to have a Principal-Teacher position at the Susan B. English School despite earlier warnings that the principal position would be switched to an administrative-only position shared by Seldovia and Port Graham schools.

Sunni Hilts, School Board Representative for the Kenai Peninsula Borough School District, relayed the news following a two-day annual planning session of the board. The administrative-only position will now be shared by Port Graham and Nanwalek; Seldovia will continue to have a principal who administers and teaches only at SBE.

Although interviews with potential candidates have already been held, there has been no formal announcement as to who will fill the Principal-Teacher position. Craig Johnson, Principal for the 2004-05 school year, resigned from his post in May.

Hilts mentioned she "had a very positive visit" with a candidate who recently came to visit Seldovia.

On Monday, the school board accepted another SBE resignation. Charity Winters, former Special Education teacher, will not return for the 2005-2006 school year.

The name of the new Special Education teacher won't be officially stated until next month, but Hilts acknowledged the position has already been filled by an Alaskan teacher.
