Volleyball Team back in Season

The Susan B. English Sea Otter volleyball players once again have a team to go win some games with. Due to ineligibility of six of the eleven players the team was suspended from a one-weekend tournament at Tri-Valley high school. The matter was cleared up last Thursday and the dedicated volleyball players were quick to pack their bags and try to make the Lumen Christi Tourney in Anchorage.

Friday morning came and Mother Nature decided to keep the players at home. Poor visibility and high wind speed kept the team from flying out of Seldovia in time to make the tourney scheduled for that afternoon. This has not gotten the volleyball players ambition down. They have been hard at practice while preparing for their home tourney, the Seldovia Slam. Three other teams will be attending this tourney: the Cook Inlet Academy Eagles, the Kenny Lake Hawks, and the Nikolaevsk Warriors. The games will start at 3:30 p.m. Friday November 17th in the school gym and the last game will be held at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday November 18th (times subject to change).

SCHOOL SPIRIT

This week at Susan B. English was the first "spirit week of the school year." The SBE Student Council decided the school needed a major school pride boost. The week consisted of Tuesday being Hat Day; this was when everyone wore a crazy hat or his/her favorite hat. Wednesday was Pajama Day; the students (and some faculty members) wore their favorite pajamas. Thursday School Color Day! Students (and faculty) wear all red and white (or as much as possible). Friday is Dress Up Day; time to show the teams coming that we "Seldovians" can be snazzy too!
