SBE Report by Katie O'Leary

11,600 Minutes

11,600 minutes; this is the amount of time left for school before the final bell rings on Wednesday, May 23rd. Though every student (and I'm sure faculty members) are waiting in anticipation for that time to come, we have plenty of things to occupy our time until then. There are some interesting things going on the rest of this month, including things such as class events, the school having a special guest artist come to work with the students for two weeks to create a "masterpiece" for our school, and Prom is this weekend.

In Marine Biology, Mr. Winters has decided to have his class dissect a shark. For his second class he is having his Biology class dissect frogs. Ms. Burnett is having her students team up in groups of two (and one of three) to do an interview one another on a major issue in today's world. Mr. Chissus is having his P.E. class do a "survival week." This is when each student is assigned a survival skill that could help someone survive in the wild. Each student will demonstrate how to perform one of these skills. On Monday the 10th-12th grade students will be taking the ASVAB test. This test is a battery of tests to show a student's aptitude in eight different areas. These eight areas are general science, arithmetic reasoning, word knowledge, paragraph comprehension, mathematic knowledge, electronic information, auto and shop information, and mechanical comprehension.

During the two weeks of April 23rd through May 4th, Jim Kaiser, a stained glass artist, will be working with the students of Susan B. English School to create works of art.

On April 14th the junior class of SBE will be hosting the 2007 Prom Dance and the entire community is invited. During the dance the Prom King and Queen will be announced as well as the princes and princesses. The dance will go from 8 p.m. to 12 a.m., followed by a "lock-in" for the high school students, being graciously hosted by the Boys and Girls Club. More on the Prom will be published next week.

Until then this has been Katie O'Leary, reporting and saying see you next week!
