Thanks to Christmas Program Workers . . .

Dear Editor:

If you missed the Christmas Program at Susan B. English school this week, you missed a great event in Seldovia.

Just wanted to say Thank you to Laurel Hilts and crew for such a professional performance. The play was so well done, the actors played their parts very well, and the music and singing were great. You could tell Laurel had worked very hard, as had the students to give us such a good show -We Need a Little Christmas Vacation!!

The HeadStart class with the "wind-up dance" was delightful!!

This year Mrs. Bornheimer's students playing carols on the Bells was so sweet and precise. (Being young doesn't preclude excellence in Seldovia.) It put me in mind of about a dozen years ago, when Mrs. Bornheimer's K-3rd grade put on The Nutcracker in full costume.

That was a Hall of Fame performance, and this year's could go up there too.

And as usual, the young kids sang loud enough to call Santa into the building.

So thank you Mrs. Hingley, and Miss Hilts and all the students who worked so hard. We really appreciated your good work!!

Slash Piles on Jakolof Road . . .

Sometimes it takes a person from somewhere else to point out the obvious, the stuff we take for granted, good and bad. Like all the eagles and sea otters we see every day, they are no big deal to me, but to someone else they are new and amazing. I like to be reminded of the obvious I take for granted. Then there's the ride to Jakolof where the inevitable questions start: why did the loggers leave such a big mess? Why didn't they clean up all the slash? Why did they leave all those huge piles of logs to rot? Why didn't they burn the remains so the new growth has a chance to grow? Why don't the natives follow federal logging practices? Why did the natives leave such a mess, and then try to promote ecotourism when they are not good stewards of the land they own?

Good questions, no answers. Aren't you embarrassed?
Please, clean up your mess.
